

2009-2010 CCPRO Initiatives

The Community College Planning and Research Organization (CCPRO) is a dynamic support network advancing institutional effectiveness through collaboration, communication and visionary leadership for the North Carolina Community College System. To advance the mission of the organization, the Executive Board will focus energies on the following initiatives this year:

- Support the development and implementation of regional CIS training, with emphasis on providing training and tools for planners and new researchers
- Form a Software Evaluation Council to explore the consortial or system-wide software purchasing.
- Produce a white paper regarding the North Carolina Community College Performance Measures to contribute to the current North Carolina Association of Community College Presidents' study and to recommend best practices in assessing institutional excellence
- Maintain awareness of SACS Accreditation-related issues and share information as it is available
- Review funding possibilities for CCPRO as the annual meeting format evolves (vendors, sponsorships)
